Shaping the future of health and social care

We're looking at new ways to join up health and care for our patients and citizens in Greater Nottingham.

Hospitals, GPs, councils and other health teams are working together with a shared vision for delivering services to benefit our patients and citizens.

This is part of the wider Sustainability and Transformation Partnership (STP).

No one in our country has tried this on such a large scale across health and social care in one place. We need to work with everyone to shape how this happens.

The views of the public are vital in making sure we get this right.
